2. Adoption of Minutes #320 of the December 13, 2007, meeting

Minutes #320 of the December 13, 2007, meeting were adopted.
3. Update on John Jay’s budget and a new budget process: Senators Kirk Dombrowski and Karen Kaplowitz and Professor Ned Benton [Attachment A]

President Kaplowitz explained the new investment plan our College is being asked to present to 80th Street by March 9th. She said the short turnaround time might mean that all the issues cannot be brought to the Senate for discussion. Senator James Malone said that he has the greatest confidence that Karen Kaplowitz, Kirk Dombrowski, and Ned Benton will represent the faculty well [Attachment A].

Professor Benton explained various ways John Jay is unjustly penalized fiscally and then explained how his data gathering would be used to rectify this in the future. He outlined the College’s multi-year planning issues and considerations.

4. A proposal for departmental reorganization from the Public Management Department [Attachment B]

Professor Ned Benton explained that the proposal [Attachment B] from the Department of Public Management, of which he is the chair, is for his Department’s division into three departments: Economics, Protection Management, and Public Management. He said that the issue of joint faculty appointments, which had been a complicated one and which had forced the Faculty Senate to postpone consideration of this resolution at its all-day meeting in December, is no longer an issue for any of the faculty members involved.

Senator Malone asked how many professors each of the new departments would have, if this proposal is approved, because a minimum number of seven faculty members is required for a department to exist. Professor Benton assured him that the minimum number of professors had been or would be hired by the time the division had taken place.

Senator Francis Sheehan suggested a language change in a sentence that appears four times in the document, once in each of the four sections regarding faculty seniority and tenure in the document, and that reads: “The following faculty members shall be members of the Department of Economics and shall retain their seniority and related appointment and tenure rights pursuant to the CUNY Bylaws and related policies”; the proposed change is to remove the word “their” so that the sentence reads “… and shall retain seniority ... Professor Benton accepted this as a friendly amendment. Senator Richardson moved the proposal, which passed by unanimous vote.

The revision by the proponents to eliminate the joint appointments of the faculty that had been in the original proposal was supported. Given these two changes, the Faculty Senate endorsed the proposal by unanimous vote.
5. Ratification of faculty members for panels for campus visits of finalists for Provost

President Kaplowitz listed the self-nominated faculty members for the faculty panels that will review the finalist candidates for Provost. Senator Patrick O’Hara moved that the Senate officially ratify these two lists of faculty members as the official faculty screening panels which will meet candidates for provost on February 5, 6, 7, and 11, at 3:30 PM.

The Provost Search Committee will then meet on February the 14th and review the reports from the various screening panels. The Search Committee will then decide which of the candidates to recommend to President Travis. The College has hired a consultant, Clara Lovett, a former president of the University of Arizona, who is vetting all the candidates, some of whom are also candidates for other positions elsewhere. Professor Benton said that the new set of candidates is much better than the last set and President Kaplowitz said the new consultant is doing a much better job at assisting the search process than did the previous firm.

The Faculty Senate panel membership was ratified:

- Simon Baatz – History
- Adam Berlin – English
- Dara Byrne – Speech, Theater & Media
- Kirk Dombrowski – Anthropology
- DeeDee Falkenbach – Psychology
- Amy Green – Speech, Theater

6. Proposal for the establishment of a panel to examine criminal justice education at JJ: Senator Evan Mandery [Attachment C]

Senator Evan Mandery is proposing the establishment of a panel to examine criminal justice education at the College [Attachment C]. President Kaplowitz explained that when the CUNY Board of Trustees approved our new Economics Major last semester, they thereby overturned the 1976 ban on liberal arts majors at John Jay, a ban which has shaped criminal justice education at the College for 22 years because all our new majors had to be connected to the College’s criminal justice mission in some way.

Senator Amy Green asked if we should discuss this proposal without Senator Mandery’s presence. President Kaplowitz said that Senator Mandery has expressly requested that his proposal be discussed by the Senate today even though he is unable to be present. VP Kirk Dombrowski questioned whether it is possible for a neutral panel to exist when this issue is an intra-departmental conflict.

Senator Shonna Trinch asked whether the Senate would be proposing this panel or just Senator Mandery. President Kaplowitz explained that if the Senate endorses the proposal, it would be the Senate. Senator P. J. Gibson said that for the Senate to back this proposal would be perceived as taking one side in a departmental fight which is not our business. Senators Nancy Ryba and DeeDee Falkenbach said they do not regard this proposal in that way but rather as an invitation to an open discussion. Senator Francis Sheehan said he is concerned about discussing this proposal when the person who is proposing it is not present despite that being the proposer’s wish.

Senator Sheehan also said that even though Senator Mandery proposed this with all good intentions, he fears that the Senate will be interfering with the healing process which President Travis said is needed in the department. Senator Gibson said we are also not hearing what all sides of this proposal have to say.

President Kaplowitz said that the sense of the Senate clearly is that we should table this issue and ask Senator Mandery whether he wants to resubmit it in the same or in an amended form. There was consensus on this course of action. A motion was made to refer the proposal back to Senator Mandery for two purposes: first, to request that Senator Mandery consult with the Department of Law, PS & CJA and garner the support of that Department for his proposal before resubmitting it to the Senate; and, second, that if resubmitted the proposal include a suggestion for the composition of the task force and for a method for selecting the members. The motion was adopted by unanimous vote.

7. Update on the Charter Revision [Attachment D, E]

The Senate reviewed a summary document, dated January 3, 2008 [Attachment D] showing the proposals thus far from faculty, administration, HEOs, Students, and from the Working Group. The Senate also reviewed the most recent draft revision of the Charter, dated January 30, 2008 [Attachment E]. The Senate commended the work of the Senate’s representatives on the Working Group and thanked them for their work on this important initiative.

The meeting adjourned at 5 PM.

Subject: John Jay College Investment Plan

At our meeting on December 7th to discuss the progress of the John Jay College Investment Plan, the College requested the approval of 12 additional faculty lines. After a review by the University of the current status of the Investment Plan as well as John Jay's overall fiscal condition, we are releasing 6 of the faculty lines at this time. These positions will be funded at an annual rate of $55,000 along with support costs of $4,000 per employee. An allocation will be provided later in the year via budget certificate to cover the pro-rated portion of these costs in FY2008. These 6 faculty lines will be fully funded in the FY2009 Initial Allocation.

In addition, a $1 million baselined revenue target reduction for John Jay has been authorized, effective immediately. It is my expectation that this action will enable the College to end FY2008 in a strong fiscal position, as well as assist John Jay in meeting its planned objectives for FY2009.

In July 2006, John Jay College submitted a final draft of its Investment Plan strategy and goals to the University. Given that the majority of these targets have not been realized, a new comprehensive Plan should be developed and submitted to my office for review. This revised submission should include a full, multi-year staffing plan that reflects realistic assumptions of new faculty hires, resultant adjunct savings, and other personal service expenditures. The College's FY09 Compact plan should be included as part of this revised Investment Plan.

Once the new Plan has been submitted and reviewed, our offices can meet to further discuss the comprehensive strategy for FY2009 and the out-years. Once that process has been completed, the University will determine the level of funding that will be advanced in support of the Plan.

If you have any questions or concerns, please let me know. I look forward to our continued collaboration in this critical endeavor for John Jay College.

REORGANIZATION PLAN

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC MANAGEMENT
JOHN JAY COLLEGE OF CRIMINAL JUSTICE
CITY UNIVERSITY OF NEW YORK
When the Department of Public Management was created, the three divisions always envisioned that each division would eventually emerge as a separate department. The following is our plan as to how to implement this settled expectation of the three faculties.

The Charter

The following is the Charter language about the combination and separation of departments.

In order to exist as a departmental entity, a discipline is required to have a minimum of seven full time members and be approved by the College Council except that the disciplines of African American Studies, Physical Education and Puerto Rican Studies shall be exempt from this requirement and shall be established as departments. Any discipline not exempt from this requirement which has less than the required number of faculty members may petition the College Council to establish a separate department and may do so upon a two-thirds affirmative vote of Council members present and voting at a regular Council meeting. If one or more disciplines choose to be combined into a single department, such combination may be effected by a two-thirds affirmative vote of the total membership of the disciplines affected and the approval of the College Council. If at any time subsequent to such a merger a discipline wishes to be separated from the combined department, a two-thirds affirmative vote of the total membership of the discipline can effect such a separation and the discipline can become a separate department provided it meets the minimum requirement of seven full time faculty members and has the approval of the College Council.

Based on the language of the Charter, the faculties in the three divisions of the Department of Public Management propose a reorganization plan that will achieve the following objectives:

- The three disciplines would eventually emerge as three distinct departments.

- Initially, the departments would function in an operational alliance based on a memorandum of understanding (MOU) which would provide that, until the departments are relocated when Phase II opens, they would continue to occupy their current general locations within North Hall, and would coordinate the deployment of support resources in the current manner. The three department chairs would create an interdepartmental management committee to coordinate the operational supervision of support staff.

- Even after the relocation associated with Phase II, the departments would continue to function in a synergistic relationship, particularly because many of the programs that we offer include courses offered by the three faculties.

The following is a potential series of steps to implement this plan:

- The Public Administration Division faculty would vote to be separated from the Department of Public Management, creating a new Department of Public
The Economics faculty of the Department of Public Management (consisting of Hoffman, Hamilton, Azfar, Warburton, Palm, LaSalle and one other faculty member in a position currently being recruited) would also vote to be separated from the Department of Public Management as the Department of Economics, effective Fall 2008. This re-separation of the faculty of previously merged department/discipline is explicitly envisioned by the last sentence of the current charter provision which reads as follows: If at any time subsequent to such a merger a discipline wishes to be separated from the combined department, a two-thirds affirmative vote of the total membership of the discipline can effect such a separation and the discipline can become a separate department provided it meets the minimum requirement of seven full-time faculty members and has the approval of the College Council.

Once those separations had taken place, the Department of Public Management would consist of the remaining Fire Science faculty, consisting of Corbett, Groner, Till, Col, and Graham. In addition, faculty members from other departments or disciplines related to Fire Science, Protection and Security Management and Emergency Management may want to join this department. Effective Fall 2008, this department could be renamed the Department of Protection Management. At the time that the Department is renamed, and depending on decisions by other faculty members in other departments, the concept of including the Security Management undergraduate major might be considered.

Any faculty member desiring a joint appointment across two departments would be permitted such an appointment as long as the faculty member has taught courses in the discipline of the second department in the past or could be expected to teach such courses in the future. Examples of faculty members who might be expected to consider joint appointments would include Corbett (PA), Groner (PA), Col (PA), Graham (ECO), Benton (PMT), Rubin (ECO), Palm (PAD) LaSalle (PAD) and others. Furthermore, other faculty members from other departments are invited to consider joining the new entities.

The resulting departments would resolve, by memorandum of understanding approved by each of the three faculties, to operate jointly with respect to support operations until the year that Phase II opens, with one chair designated as the lead chair for purposes of supervision of operations and support staffing. At the time of Phase II completion, the departments will review the arrangement and consider how to proceed.
These changes represent incremental steps in a process that has been anticipated since the times of the mergers of the three divisions.

The result would be three departments with distinct disciplinary foci, undergraduate majors related to the disciplines, and significant levels of participation in the MPA and PMT graduate programs.

Re: A proposal

Agenda item #6: Proposal that a panel of faculty, administrators and students – on the model of the Critical Choices committee – be established to examine the structure of the college with respect to criminal justice education: Senator Evan Mandery

On behalf of all of the signatories to the proposal for a department of Crime, Law & Policy, I propose that we take the occasion of the new year to begin anew the John Jay community’s conversation about the merits of our proposal and, more generally, the question whether the college’s structure is ideally suited to serve the needs of our students and to compete with our leading rivals. To this end, I propose two specific measures:

First, I am asking the Executive Committee of the College Council and the Executive Committee of the Faculty Senate to postpone formal consideration of the proposal until the Fall 2008 semester. It strikes me that a period for further deliberation would be useful for a host of reasons. I hope that we use the additional time to brainstorm, discuss the strengths and weaknesses of the proposal, to develop possible alternatives, and to listen further to the concerns of all of the stakeholders involved in this issue.

Second, I am asking the Executive Committee of the Faculty Senate to place on the agenda of the Faculty Senate’s first spring meeting a proposal that President Travis convene a panel of faculty, administrators and students – on the model of the Critical Choices committee – to examine the structure of the college with respect to criminal justice education. I think it is now obvious to everyone at the College that the issues raised in our proposal are sensitive ones and, more importantly, issues that affect every student and every faculty member at the College. I was part of the first Critical Choices committee and thought that it worked exceptionally well. Its conspicuous strength, in my opinion, was that it sought to educate the College community in a neutral manner about the possible options available and the implications of these various courses of action. I think this exercise would be exceedingly useful again. With hard work through the spring and summer, such a committee could be in a position to inform the College’s discussion next fall.

Like many people at the College, I have followed with interest the discussion of my proposal. I did not think during the discussion period – and do not think now – that it would be useful for me or any of my colleagues to respond to all of the arguments that have been raised. My hope is that we can use the next few months to listen to one another more carefully and pursue this conversation with greater nuance and dispassion. Let me just add one perspective that has not been heard to this point. As the person who compiled this proposal and ultimately attached his name to it as the lead signatory, I was in the unique position of receiving everyone's feedback on the proposal. Each and every person who ultimately signed the proposal had their own changes that they would have made and their own reservations. Each signed on because they wanted to begin a discussion about a set of issues and believed that this discussion could only occur productively with a specific idea to focus the conversation. All of us had and continue to have open minds. Much of this process has been falsely adversarial to this point. Everyone who has presented a view on this issue wants the same thing: the very best for the students of John Jay. I am optimistic that by beginning with a clean slate we can produce a consensus that addresses the concerns that my colleagues and I outlined in our proposal and the important reservations that have been expressed by the members of my own department.

<td>Faculty is allotted 28 out of 56 seats. Faculty representatives are &quot;reapportioned&quot; among the academic departments as of the first of September of the year preceding that in which the election is held, at which time the academic departments shall be ranked ordered based on the number of faculty of each department. Each academic department shall be allocated one seat and the remaining seats shall be allocated according to any method duly adopted by the Faculty Senate.&quot;</td>
<td>Currently the faculty comprises 50% of the voting membership of the College Council. The governance structures of the First Tier CUNY senior colleges allocate a substantial majority of voting seats to faculty, in three cases – Baruch, Brooklyn and CCNY - 100% of the voting members are faculty. A substantial faculty voting majority would be consistent with the academic and curricular responsibilities of the Council, and would reinforce the College’s plan to be a leading first tier senior college. The two current sentences also set forth contradictory methods of allocation.</td>
<td>Delete reference to the number of faculty members. The number of voting faculty members should be one per department, plus an additional number of voting faculty members, to be designated by the Faculty Senate, so that 75% of the voting seats are held by members of the faculty. In principle the percent should be no less than the norm of the First Tier CUNY senior colleges. The seats designated by the Faculty Senate would be allocated according to a method adopted annually by the Faculty Senate. The four Faculty Senate adjunct members shall be ex officio members without vote.</td>
<td>CC composed of 69 members: 42 faculty (60%) 27 non-faculty: -President -Provost -VP Finance and Admin -VP Student Development -VP Enrollment Mgmt -Graduate Dean -Undergraduate Dean -Dean of Research -5 HEOs -1 non-instructional staff representative</td>

<td>Clarify intent that class representatives are to be selected from those already elected to those posts for Student Government. Review the number and voting status of non-instructional members in light of CUNY norms and Perez.</td>
<td>Absolute majority rule makes attendance of every member critical. Propose eliminating two first year student representatives. Seats are hard to fill and students should earn way onto Council. Students comprise 27% of JJ reps. Student representation varies widely among CUNY colleges.</td>

8. Article I, Section 5: Qualifications for Voting

Section 5(a)
Each full time member of the instructional staff shall be allowed one vote in an election of Council members and each part time member, one-half vote.

First section gives all part time instructional staff one-half vote in Council elections. Second section, which applies to all College elections, only gives one-half vote to part time members who have served for four semesters.

Amend Article 1, Section 5 limit voting in departmental elections to fulltime (not substitute or visiting) members of the faculty.

HEOs (who are part of the instructional staff) would still be able to elect HEO representatives on the Council.

Concur that adjuncts and substitutes should not vote in department or college-wide elections.

Must clarify definition of “faculty” and “instructional staff.”
