7. Election of the Chair and Members of the 2009-10 Senate Fiscal Advisory Committee

The Senate elected Senators Tom Litwack (Chair), Jay Hamilton, Karen Kaplowitz, and Francis Sheehan to the Senate’s Fiscal Advisory Committee.

8. Approval of the proposed Calendar of Faculty Senate meetings [Attachment D]

The proposed calendar of meetings for the 2009-2010 academic year was approved.

President Kaplowitz reviewed the recent events related to the proposal to create a new honors program. She said that, as the Senate knows from her emails, following our May 8 Faculty Senate meeting at which Senators raised serious concerns about the proposed honors program, especially about admissions criteria and about the lack of a budget for the honors program and concern about the fiscal drain that this program might have on our College’s operating budget, she wrote three Resolutions which she moved at the May 11 meeting of the College Council [Attachment E].

She emphasized the fact that she moved these Resolutions as an individual member of the College Council and not as the President of the Faculty Senate and certainly not on behalf of the Faculty Senate, given that she drafted the Resolutions subsequent to the Senate’s previous meeting.

The three Resolutions require that: 1] beginning in Fall 2011 and annually thereafter for the subsequent four years an assessment report shall be submitted by the Honors Program Governance Committee to UCASC and to the College Council; 2] the Honors Program proposal shall be amended to provide for the admission of students who are in the top ranks of the students in each major and that the Honors Program Task Force and UCASC present a proposal for action by the College Council at its October 2009 meeting, at the latest; 3] an assessment shall be conducted, including through the use of focus groups and survey instruments, of students and faculty who were previously in our honors program as well as those who are currently in our honors program.

At the May 11 College Council meeting, each of the three Resolutions, which were amendments to the proposal for a new Honors Program, were approved by unanimous vote of the College Council. The Resolutions were moved, discussed, and voted on one at a time and not as a package.

After each of the three Resolutions was approved, a motion was made to table the amended proposal for a new honors program. The motion to table failed with a vote of 20 yes, 26 no, and 0 abstentions. Next a motion was made to adopt the honors program proposal as amended and this motion failed by a vote of 32 yes, 7 no, and 4 abstentions.

Because of the Public Officers Law, which the College Council must follow, an absolute affirmative majority is needed for a motion to carry and because the College Council has 69 members, 35 affirmative votes are needed. The 32 affirmative votes were, thus, insufficient even though the number of yes votes cast was a clear majority of the 43 members present.

Subsequent to the May 11 College Council meeting, Counsel Rosemarie Maldonado researched Roberts Rules and issued a memorandum [Attachment F] stating that the proposal for a new honors program may be reconsidered at a specially added meeting of the College Council. Such a meeting was called by President Travis (as is permitted by our Charter) and was held on May 18. At that meeting, the amended proposal for a new honors program was approved by an absolute majority of the College Council.

Also on the agenda of the specially scheduled May 18 College Council meeting was a Resolution regarding assessment of the MPA-IG Hybrid/Online Program. This Resolution, which was approved, requires the following: a five year evaluation of the MPA-IG Hybrid Online program; this evaluation shall consist of annual reports that will include but not be limited to the following: admissions standards, enrollment, retention, progress toward degree, graduation rates, curriculum, and cost to the college; and the reporting and assessment methodologies and instruments shall be developed by the MPA faculty in consultation with the office of the director of assessment and the director of OIR and shall be approved by the provost; and beginning in fall 2010 and annually thereafter for the first five years of the program an assessment report shall be submitted by the MPA Program to the Graduate Studies Committee and to the College Council.

President Kaplowitz circulated documents [Attachment G, H, I] relating to the proposed amendment of the CUNY Board of Trustees Bylaws to impose term limits on department chairs [Attachment G]. She explained to the new Senators that the Faculty Senate has already voted against the term limits proposal as did several of our academic departments and the Council of Chairs. The University Faculty Senate has also voted a resolution opposing the proposal, a Resolution which the John Jay Senate endorsed on May 8 [Attachment H].

This proposed amendment of the CUNY Bylaws [Attachment G] is scheduled to be voted on by the Board of Trustees in September. Because quite a number of Senators are new members and were not on the Senate when the Senate voted its opposition to the term limits proposal, President Kaplowitz briefed the body. She said discussion of this today is necessary because the Senate is meeting with President Travis in a few minutes and we need to discuss this issue with President Travis because Chancellor Goldstein has written to the Presidents directing them to discuss the proposed amendment with their faculties and to report to him [Attachment I].

President Travis arrived from a meeting at 80th St. and reported that there is no new funding from 80th St to announce but that he thinks the College is well placed to receive new funding should any become available. He described the transformation of the College about which he had just presented a report to a group of Vice Chancellors at 80th St.

President Travis said his priority for next year is to focus on helping students make the transition from high school to college.

President Kaplowitz referenced the Chancellor's letter of May 11 to the CUNY Presidents [Attachment I] asking the Presidents to consult with their faculty about the Chancellor's proposal to limit the terms of the elected chairs of academic departments to two consecutive three-year terms, an action that would require CUNY Board of Trustees action [Attachment G]. She invited President Travis to discuss this and noted that, as she had already informed him a few weeks earlier, the John Jay Faculty Senate had adopted a resolution opposing such term limits, as has the University Faculty Senate [Attachment H]. She asked him his view on this issue.

President Travis said he supports the Chancellor's proposal to establish term limits, having learned from the Vice Chancellor for Legal Affairs that the practice of electing chairs is not a universal practice. On the contrary, the practice of presidents appointing department chairs is very widespread, he has learned. He said frequent change in leadership is important, especially at John Jay. He noted that the Chancellor is not proposing that a person cannot serve more than two terms but rather that a person cannot serve more than two consecutive terms. At the same time, he said, he knows that the Chancellor does want feedback about this proposal and is open to ideas on this issue.

Asked why this issue has been introduced by the Chancellor, President Travis said it has been discussed with the Chancellor at the Council of Presidents and that many presidents have said they want this change. He noted that the issue certainly became an important one at John Jay when he removed a department chair last year. President Kaplowitz pointed out that the Chancellor has long wanted to remove chairs from membership in the union, arguing that they are managers and should, therefore, be excluded from union membership and protection and that the opposition of the faculty and the PSC leadership to that has been resolute.

President Travis said the fact that some chairs are reelected for many multiple terms, often in uncontested elections, has contributed to this proposed change. President Kaplowitz said that sometimes this is because the chair has been and continues to be an outstanding chair, providing exemplary leadership to the department and to the college. On the other hand, she said, sometimes it is because of other reasons. She suggested we discuss these other reasons and propose some solutions to them, saying that improving the system of electing chairs would be preferable than an artificial solution such as arbitrary term limits.

One obstacle to contested elections, she said, is the way department elections are conducted. Roberts Rules permits the chair of the department to conduct the election for chair; there have been cases of which she is aware that the department chair has conducted the election when his or her term is up, has called upon a person (pre-arranged) to nominate that chair for re-election, then has called upon another person (also pre-arranged) to move that nominations be closed, which then happened, all within seconds. She suggested that chairs not be permitted to conduct elections for the chair; that, indeed, as is done at some colleges, a senior member of a different department conduct the election; and that there be secret nominations prior to the meeting as well as open nominations at the election meeting.

President Travis asked for an explanation of this last suggestion. President Kaplowitz explained that the CUNY rules about department elections, which VC Schaffer and his predecessors have promulgated, require open nominations to be held during the election meeting and at no other time. She said it is psychologically very difficult to sit at a meeting – especially one chaired by the department chair – and to nominate someone other than that person. It feels like a vote of no-confidence. She said that on the other hand, CUNY rules require secret ballots when voting. She said that if nominations could be made secretly, in writing, perhaps a week prior to the election meeting and the names circulated to the department members, perhaps with election statements, the department members would then have time to freely and privately discuss the candidates, including with people outside their department and then meaningful and informed voting could take place, including, if the department were to choose, speeches by each candidate. In addition, there would be open nominations of other candidates permitted at the election meeting itself. Also, she said, sometimes department members do not even know whether the chair is running for re-election until nominations open; we could require that incumbent chairs declare their intention to run for re-election, or not, at least a few days prior to the election meeting.

President Travis called these excellent ideas and suggested that we look into the possibility of implementing them at John Jay, whether the term limit proposal is enacted or not. President Kaplowitz said that at least one of them would require permission from VC Schaffer, most notably the requirement of open nominations at the election meeting.

President Kaplowitz said the other big obstacle to meaningful elections for chair is that the members of a department often do not know how good or poor a job the chair is doing. She said that there are often no records of even attendance at meetings that the chairs are expected to attend, or at least there are no records that are promulgated to the members of the department. She said that her experience of chairs in their role as campus leaders at John Jay, is that most do an excellent job and that most do an excellent job overall, including, and sometimes, especially, chairs who have held the position for many, many years. But when that is not the case, her experience is that the department members do not have a clue about this fact; they have no information on which to base a decision as to whom to nominate, whether to themselves run, or whether to re-nominate the current chair.

President Travis said that he and Provost Bowers conduct an annual evaluation of each chair, as required by Chancellor Goldstein. He said that the evaluation begins with the chair's written self-evaluation, which includes the chair's plans for her or his department for the following year and, sometimes, for the following several years and is followed by a meeting attended by the chair, the President, and the Provost, and then that is followed by a written evaluation by Provost Bowers addressed to the chair. He said the chairs are expected to share that written evaluation by the Provost with their faculty and are so informed. President Kaplowitz said she does not think this is done.

President Travis expressed surprise and asked how many members of the Senate here today have received or seen the annual evaluation letter from the Provost to their chair. Not one hand was raised. (One person said he might have seen it but was not sure but the other Senators from that department were all silent.) President Kaplowitz said that, additionally, her understanding is that most faculty members are not consulted when the chair writes the self-evaluation which, as she understands it, is largely the chair's evaluation of the department. President Travis said he knows some departments have long-range planning committees and that the work of those committees is reflected in the self-evaluation but he added that of course the chair must consult with the department in preparing the self-evaluation and he said he assumed that the chairs share that self-evaluation, which is an evaluation of the department and its plans, with their faculty. President Kaplowitz said that if faculty were to have such documents, they could make a more informed choice in the election of chairs process.

President Travis said he completely agrees and that, again, we can institute these proposals without regard as to whether term limits are imposed. She added that we could recommend to the Chancellor that these changes be implemented.

Senator Tom Litwack said he is very pleased that the discussion of this issue is moving in this direction. VP Francis Sheehan said we are all leaving this meeting with new knowledge and new ideas about governance at John Jay and at CUNY. Many Senators expressed their concurrence. President Travis said he considers today's discussion to be invaluable and he thanked the Senate for it.

Upon a motion made and adopted, the meeting was adjourned at 5:20 PM.

3 Resolutions to amend the proposal for a new Honors Program

Submitted to the College Council by Professor Karen Kaplowitz

May 11, 2009

RESOLUTION #1

Resolution Regarding Assessment of the Honors Program

RESOLVED

That there shall be an annual evaluation of the proposed new Honors Program that is on the agenda of the College Council’s May 11, 2009, meeting;

That this evaluation shall consist of annual reports that shall include but not be limited to the following: admissions standards, enrollment, retention, progress toward degree, graduation rates, curriculum, student satisfaction, faculty satisfaction, and cost to the college; and

That the reporting and assessment methodologies and instruments shall be developed during the 2009-10 academic year by the Honors Program Task Force in consultation with the Director of Assessment and the Director of the Office of Institutional Research and shall be approved by the Undergraduate Curriculum and Academic Standards Committee and by the College Council; and

That beginning in Fall 2011 and annually thereafter, for the subsequent four years, an assessment report shall be submitted by the Honors Program Governance Committee to the Undergraduate Curriculum and Academic Standards Committee and to the College Council.

RATIONALE
The College has an interest in carefully monitoring the effectiveness of the proposed Honors Program at John Jay. Since this is a College-wide interest, it is appropriate that the assessment and evaluation of such initiatives have the attention of College governance committees.
RESOLUTION #2
Resolution Regarding Admission to the Honors Program

RESOLVED

That the Honors Program shall be amended to provide for the admission of students who are in the top ranks of each major; and

That the Honors Program Task Force and the Undergraduate Curriculum and Academic Standards Committee shall study such admittance to the Honors Program and shall present a proposal for action by the College Council at its October 2009 meeting, at the latest.

RATIONALE
Certain majors are extremely challenging and might unfairly exclude students from possible admission in the Honors Program. This provision would provide a method for including them and thus further ensure diversity of the students in the program by providing for diversity of academic majors. The proposal is provide for the invitation of students in each major who are in the top 5% or 10%, to be determined by the relevant governance bodies, of all students in each major to apply for admission.
RESOLUTION #3

Resolution Regarding an Assessment of Former and Current Honors Program Students and Faculty Members

RESOLVED

That the Office of Assessment and the Director of Institutional Research, in consultation with the Honors Program Task Force, shall develop an assessment instrument and methodology, including focus groups, that measure the satisfaction and experience of those students currently and previously enrolled in the current Honors Program and of those students enrolled in the existing Program during the 2009-10 Academic Year as well as those faculty members who currently and previously taught in the Program as well as those teaching in the program during 2009-10. The survey instrument and focus groups shall include questions for ascertaining the opinions of these students and of these faculty members about the proposed new Honors Program.

RATIONALE

The experience and opinions of students and faculty in the current Honors Program – which has existed for 7 years – are important to know and to analyze in developing and implementing the best possible Honors Program at John Jay.

Re: Roberts Rules Section 38
Date: May 15, 2009

A motion that has been voted down by the College Council can be brought up again for consideration at a subsequent meeting. Section 38 of Roberts Rules permits the renewal of a motion that has been disposed of by an assembly as long as it is not brought up in the same session. Section 38 states in relevant part:

If a motion is made and disposed of without being adopted, and is later allowed to come before the assembly after being made again by any member in essentially the same connection, the motion is said to be renewed. Renewal of motions is limited by the basic principle that an assembly cannot be asked to decide the same, or substantially the same, question twice during one session, except through a motion to reconsider a vote or a motion to rescind an action or in connection with amending something already adopted.

The question here is what constitutes a “session.” Section 8 of Roberts Rules defines “a session of an assembly” as “a meeting or series of connected meetings devoted to a single order of business, program, agenda or announced purpose . . . .” Roberts Rules further explains that the number of meetings constituting a session depends on the type of assembly and the bylaws. However,

In a permanent society whose bylaws provide for regular weekly, monthly, or quarterly meetings that go through an established order of business in a single afternoon or evening, each ‘meeting’ of this kind normally completes a separate session – unless the assembly at such a meeting schedules an adjourned meeting . . . .

The College Charter and Bylaws do not define a College Council session; therefore, the definition set forth in Roberts Rules applies. Accordingly, the renewal of a motion previously considered is permitted at a subsequent College Council meeting.
ATTACHMENT G

THE CITY UNIVERSITY OF NEW YORK - PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO ARTICLE IX OF THE BYLAWS:

RESOLVED, That the Bylaws of the Board of Trustees be amended as follows (additions indicated by underscoring):

Section 9.1 Department Organization

b. The executive officer of the department shall be the department chairperson who shall be a professor, associate professor or assistant professor elected by secret ballot for a term of three years, except as provided below, by a majority vote of all the members of the instructional staff of the department who have faculty rank. Proxy or mail voting shall not be permitted. The department chairperson must be tenured or have been approved by the board for tenure at the time of his/her election, except in-departments less than seven years old. Such elections shall be subject to the subsequent approval of the president and the board. Department chairpersons may serve for no more than two consecutive terms, unless a waiver of this limitation is Granted by the president because of unusual circumstances and in the best interests of the department and the college. Service as a department chairperson for more than one-half of a three-year term will be considered service for a full term for purposes of determining eligibility for additional service. The present system of staggered departmental elections shall be continued. The successors of department chairpersons shall be elected during the first full week in May at the expiration of the respective terms of office to take office as of July first of the year in which they are elected and at the three year intervals thereafter. Vacancies shall be filled by election for the unexpired term. Notwithstanding anything in the foregoing to the contrary, in the library department, the president of the college shall from time, to time recommend a member of the department to the board for designation as chairperson. Department chairpersons who are not tenured professors, associate professors or assistant professors on January 1, 1976 may fill out their unexpired terms as chairpersons, subject to the provisions of sections 9.1.(c) and 9.6.(a) of these bylaws.

RESOLVED, That the above-mentioned amendment take effect at the end. of the term of department chairpersons starting in the 2009-10 academic year.

EXPLANATION: The proposed amendment revises Article IX of the Bylaws to limit the service of department chairpersons to two consecutive terms. Limiting a department chairperson's service to two (three-year) terms will give more faculty the opportunity to serve as chairpersons, performing an important service to the department and to the college. As different faculty members have diverse viewpoints and leadership styles, the department will benefit by having new department chairpersons who will bring fresh ideas and approaches to managing their departments. The college president may waive this term limit because of unusual circumstances and in the best interests of the department and the college (e.g., a very small department where there is literally no one else who could serve as chairperson). In order to avoid disturbing the elections that have just taken place or having special elections for department chairpersons who have served longer than this term limit allows, this amendment will take effect at the end of their terms starting in the 2009-10 academic year.
Resolution Opposing Term Limits for Department Chairs

Whereas, the CUNY Board of Trustees will be asked to vote in June on a Bylaws change that would impose a two-term limit on elected department chairs (text from OGC on obverse, undated), and

Whereas, the Council of Faculty Governance Leaders voted unanimously on May 1 to reject the proposal for the reasons cited below:

1) Faculty members' right to elect a chair of their departments to represent them is an important power. Any Board action to limit or truncate this power can only be viewed as an attack on faculty governance and faculty voice.

2) Mechanisms already exist to remove chairs at any time who are not performing adequately, especially presidential action.

3) The Bylaws already require that elections take place by secret ballot every 3 years, which ensures that all eligible faculty have an opportunity to be elected if the faculty of the department deems it in the best interest of the department and the college.

4) The job of chair is complex: acquiring the expertise to do it well takes time, making continuity valuable.

5) The proposed maximum 6-year term for chairs is not consistent with the current 7-year tenure clock. An important function of chairs is to mentor younger faculty from their hiring to their getting tenure. Shortening the term of chairs would significantly disrupt this process.

6) Lack of proper consultation: the proposal surfaced two weeks ago, just before the end of the semester and after the point at which many college senates have already had their final meeting of the year.

Therefore, Be It Resolved, that the University Faculty Senate joins the Council of Faculty Governance Leaders in urging the Board of Trustees to reject this proposal.

Proponent: Executive Committee (unanimously)

Present for the Council of Faculty Governance Leaders vote were UFS Chair Manfred Philipp, and Professors Jason Young (Hunter College), Martha Bell (Brooklyn College), Hector Lopez (Hostos CC), Stefan Baumrin (Graduate School), Rosalind Carey (Lehman College), Donald Hume (Kingsborough CC), Island), Elizabeth Lowe (Queens College), Karen Kaplowitz (John Jay College), Emily Tai

To: College Presidents

From: Matthew Goldstein

Re: Term Limits for Department Chairs

As you know, there has been discussion by the Council of Presidents regarding its desire to change the way in which department chairs are chosen. A proposed idea was to limit the number of successive times a faculty member could serve as chair. From what I understand, there is strong sentiment among presidents that a change should be made, with the particulars yet to be worked through.

The central administration had a very preliminary conversation with the University Faculty Senate (UFS) leadership regarding this issue. This was followed by a quick vote against the idea at a recent UFS plenary before any serious discussion that would inform a change.

It has always been my intention to request a briefing from each president about how his or her campus constituencies and governance leaders feel about this issue before any action is taken. To that end, I ask that you initiate a process on your campus, based on your specific circumstances, to elicit the views of your college community regarding term limits for chairs.

I realize that it is late in the academic year to begin such a process. I would ask that this discussion take place either in the time remaining in this semester or in the earliest part of the fall semester, and that you report back to me as soon as you have gathered the appropriate feedback.

Thank you.
